At a glance 69: Safeguarding adults: Types and indicators of abuse

Evidence of any one indicator from the following lists should not be taken on its own as proof that abuse is occurring. However, it should alert practitioners to make further assessments and to consider other associated factors. The lists of possible indicators and examples of behaviour are not exhaustive and people may be subject to a number of abuse types at the same time.

Physical abuse

Types of physical abuse:
• assault, hitting, slapping, punching, kicking, hair-pulling, biting, pushing
• rough handling
• scalding and burning
• physical punishments
• inappropriate or unlawful use of restraint
• making someone purposefully uncomfortable (e.g. opening a window and removing blankets)
• involuntary isolation or confinement
• misuse of medication (e.g. over-sedation)
• forcible feeding or withholding food
• unauthorised restraint, restricting movement (e.g. tying someone to a chair).

Possible indicators of physical abuse:
• no explanation for injuries or inconsistency with the account of what happened
• injuries are inconsistent with the person’s lifestyle
• bruising, cuts, welts, burns and/or marks on the body or loss of hair in clumps
• frequent injuries
• unexplained falls
• subdued or changed behaviour in the presence of a particular person
• signs of malnutrition
• failure to seek medical treatment or frequent changes of GP.

Introduction

People with care and support needs, such as older people or people with disabilities, are more likely to be abused or neglected. They may be seen as an easy target and may be less likely to identify abuse themselves or to report it. People with communication difficulties can be particularly at risk because they may not be able to alert others. Sometimes people may not even be aware that they are being abused, and this is especially likely if they have a cognitive impairment. Abusers may try to prevent access to the person they abuse.

Signs of abuse can often be difficult to detect. This At a glance briefing aims to help people who come into contact with people with care and support needs to identify abuse and recognise possible indicators. Many types of abuse are also criminal offences and should be treated as such.

Types of abuse:
• Physical abuse
• Domestic violence or abuse
• Sexual abuse
• Psychological or emotional abuse
• Financial or material abuse
• Modern slavery
• Discriminatory abuse
• Organisational or institutional abuse
• Neglect or acts of omission
• Self-neglect

Safeguarding adults: resources

SCIE has developed the following resources to help social workers, local authority staff and their partners, chairs and members of Safeguarding Adults Boards, to meet their new safeguarding duties under the Care Act 2014. You can find these resources at: www.scie.org.uk/casa

- Adult safeguarding practice questions
  Guidance is for frontline practitioners and managers who work with adults who have care and support needs and who may be at risk of abuse or neglect. It identifies a number of challenging safeguarding dilemmas, and aims to make clear how these should be handled within the new legal framework.

- Information sharing guide
  What information agencies should be sharing and with whom.

- Safeguarding Adults Boards checklist and resources
  This guide aims to inform Safeguarding Adults Boards (SABs) of what is required of them under the Care Act and to help them improve their effectiveness.

- Safeguarding Adults Reviews (SARs): implementation support
  This resource supplements the policy development work already underway or completed by SABs.
