Introduction:

The Liver Matters project works across the Birmingham South Central CCG to enhance the quality of life for people with alcohol-related liver disease and their carer(s) and families.

Aims:

- to provide advice and information about liver disease to individuals, families and the community;
- to liaise and coordinate between individuals, families and services in order to maximise the effectiveness of treatment;
- to provide support to individuals and families with volunteers to support abstinence;
- to facilitate expansion of social networks and encourage a healthy lifestyle;
- to ensure supportive and end of life pathways are open for the individual, preparing them, their relatives and staff for the possibility of death.

Actions:

- Case co-ordination to ensure clients and families have access to treatment and support to meet their health, social care and financial needs;
- Volunteer-led activities to help those who are mobile to access social and well-being resources, like walking, craft and coffee mornings and walking football;
- Home visiting to support abstinence and provide emotional and practical support, for example transport to appointments;
- Advice and information about liver disease to individuals, families and the community;
- Liaison and coordination between individuals, families and services;
- Volunteer befriending services for individuals and their families who are isolated with alcohol related liver disease.
