

Security Scanning Candidate Handout

To uphold the highest standards of exam security, Pearson VUE has introduced advanced screening protocols designed to address the evolving threat of covert recording devices. As part of these enhanced measures, all candidates will be subject to a security scan utilizing both infrared and metal detection wands. These devices are specifically designed to identify small cameras and other hidden electronics that may compromise exam confidentiality.

During the screening process, please stand where directed and keep perfectly still with your feet shoulder-width apart and your arms outstretched to your side. The procedure is conducted by a trained test administrator who will guide you through each step, ensuring both your comfort and compliance with security protocols.

Once the screening is complete, the test administrator will escort you to your seat where you may proceed with your examination. These measures are in place not only to protect the integrity of the testing process but also to provide a fair and secure environment for all candidates.
